F. POURBUS.

378. 80 A YOUTHFUL KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF SANTIAGO OF SPAIN. Full-length life-sized figure of a boy standing on a bare pavement, in front of a chair on which is hung a grey felt hat adorned with a white and red feather; he wears a long white cloak, on the front of which is the red cross of Santiago, and Vandyck collar; his left hand grasps the hilt of his sword, the cloak on that side being raised and thrown over his arm, reveals an under-dress of crimson, with white leggings and shoes; deep crimson background.

A remarkable picture, painted in a very silvery tone and delicately modelled. Much commended by Dr. Passavant in his 'Kunstreise durch England,' page 175, but erroneously styled A Youthful Knight of St. John.

It was the form of cross which Philip IV. bestowed upon Velasquez by means of a red paint-brush applied to the artist's own portrait, according to the well-known anecdote (see Stirling's 'Spanish Papers,' vol. ii. pp. 651 and 657). This same cross also appears on a portrait of Ribalta belonging to Sir Wm. Eden, Bart., which was No. 230 of the Manchester Exhibition in 1857. It was again conspicuous on a portrait attributed to Van Dyck, dated 1630, in the collection at Warwick Castle.
